Get to know Our People
- Kaumil Parekh -

Kaumil's role as a Development Architect requires him to design and develop software solutions to integrate into client business systems. His skills, knowledge, and many years of experience in solutions development and integration services make him a real asset to the team. His role also includes mentoring junior developers which he enjoys on a daily basis.

"I am greatly fascinated by technology and the constant evolution of it - I love the new gadgets out there in the current market. Outside of IT, I have a strong passion for Cricket, both on the field and off - like a true blooded Indian should have. A few of my other interests include delving in a little deep sea diving as I have found a new universe out there in the blue (my future plans include becoming a dive master if time permits), architecture and travel."

Cornwall Stodart deploy Matter Centric, Implement EMM

Having been long time users of Autonomy's iManage, Cornwall Stodart originally implemented the then standard document centric approach. As a result of client briefings from i2 ...
